PROGRAM OUTLINED BY FARMS PARLEY HELP AGRICULTURE

THIS INCLUDES RAIL RATE REDUCTION, CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING, WATERWAYS, ETC.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 28—Administration forces and the congressional farm bloc today laid plans to enact legislation helpful to agriculture in conformity with the program of the agricultural conference. Insurgents of the conference charged that the administration is guilty of trying to "kidnap the child" by attempting to take the leadership in farm legislation annexed by the farm bloc.

John McSparren, master of the Pennsylvania state grange, stated a program of the agricultural conference for completing its work last night, which contains little that is not already a part of the bloc program. The value of the conference, he said, lies in awakening the people of the United States to the true plight of agriculture.

The program as put into shape by the conference of 326 representatives of all lines of agriculture, bankers, transportation, millers, implement makers, fertilizer manufacturers and other interests, call for the following outstanding features:

Completion of the St. Lawrence waterways project.

Reducing of freight rates to the level of August, 1920, about 25 per cent, and a further reduction if conditions warrant them.

Deflation of transportation and labor.

Co-operative marketing.

Limitation of crop acreage.

Participation by the United States in a conference for economic and financial reconstruction of Europe, construed as taking part in the Genoa conference.

Congressional investigation of some means of stabilizing prices to insure farmers against loss, and greater credit facilities, than are now available for agriculture.

Defeat by the conference of the effort to place the delegates on record in favor of the repeal of the Adamson eight hour law, and the guarantee clause of the Esch-Cummins law was interpreted today as the closely knit alliance between union labor and the farmers.

GENOA CONFERENCE FAILURE WITHOUT U. S., THINK GERMANS

(By United Press.)

A report from Washington indicating the improbability of an American delegate attending the fothcoming economic conference in March have caused surprise and some dismay in government circles here.

WOULD CALL NATL. CONFERENCE SOLVE HOUSING SHORTAGE

SENATOR KING OF UTAH, SENDS LETTER TO PRESIDENT URGING SUCH A MOVE

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 28—A movement of the national conference to solve the nation's housing and high rent problems was started here today.

Senator King, democrat, of Utah, sent a letter to President Harding pleading that he issue a call for delegates from all parts of the country to assemble and find relief for the present building situation.

"The president could summon representatives of banking interests, labor and public, who could launch a huge building drive for new construction of homes," King told the United Press in an exclusive interview today.

"Bankers would be glad to loan the money to finance such a national program. Representatives of labor would be glad for such a way to furnish employment to men who are out of work. The public could play the interested third party in the negotiations and see a decision is reached to overcome the great national peril. I believe such a conference would not only smother a large portion of the present depression, but would alleviate the unemployment situation."

STATE SUPREME COURT OUTLAWS TRADE BOYCOTTS

COURT DECIDES THAT AGREEMENT TO BOYCOTT VIOLATES MINN. ANTI-TRUST LAW

Minneapolis, Jan. 28—Organized trade boycotts violate the Minnesota anti-trust law, the state supreme court ruled in one of the most important decisions handed down in recent years. In the specific case decided yesterday, the court held that conspiracy to boycott a motion picture theatre is an unlawful restraint of trade.

The supreme court upheld District Judge W. W. Bardwell of Hennepin county in granting an injunction July 12, 1920, restraining labor unions from picketing the Wonderland theatre, 29 Washington Ave. S. and from proclaiming it in the official labor organ as "unfair."

In a second decision, the supreme court upheld Judge Bardwell in committing Dan W. Stevens, Leslie Sinton, Lynn Thompson and R. D. Cramer to jail for contempt, for their refusal to abide by the injunction. His action in this case is modified, however, eliminating a $125 fine assessed on each man for the benefit of J. J. Campbell, proprietor of the theatre, but the supreme court holds that a $100 judgment against the four men for attorneys' fees was levied properly.

The finding of the supreme court means that this judgment must be paid or the four men must return to jail. For failure to pay the judgment, Judge Bardwell committed them to the county jail for not exceeding six months. They served two months and then obtained their freedom by filing an appeal bond. They may escape the remaining four months of the sentence by paying the $100 attorneys' fees.

Reargument probably will be asked for, according to T. E. Latimer as counsel for the four defendants. Geo. B. Leonard, chief counsel, is absent from the city.

The decision in the injunction case lines the Minnesota courts up with recent decisions of the United States supreme court, and for the first time defines clearly the rights and the limitations of action in labor disputes. Injunctions against unlawful picketing have been sustained in the past under the common law, but the decision yesterday applies the anti-trust section of the Minnesota statutes, holding that it covers boycotts and that injunctions may be issued under it to prevent "irreparable injury to property for which there is no adequate remedy at law."

This construction of the law will operate more for the protection of employees than of employers, the court holds in the main decision. The employer already has protection under the common law, but under the anti-trust law the employee also is given protection against a combination of employers.

Two Justices Dissent

Two cases were decided yesterday. The main case, in which the Bardwell injunction was upheld, was decided by a divided court. Justices H. B. Dibell and Oscar Hallam dissented. The opinion was written by Commissioner Edward Lees. The decision in the other case, the appeal from the judgment for contempt, is unanimous. It was written by Commissioner M. D. Taylor.

UNCOMPLETED SPAN OF BIG BRIDGE DROPS INTO MISSISSIPPI

FIRE DESTROYS STRUCTURE TO SUPPORT CONCRETE WORK ON FRANKLIN AVE. BRIDGE

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, Jan. 28—One partially completed span of the one million dollar bridge over the Mississippi river on Franklin avenue, dropped into the river following a fire which destroyed the structure under it late yesterday.

The part dropped was the span that is to be the longest concrete arch in the world. Work on the bridge will be delayed more than a month.

Five firemen working under the bridge narrowly escaped death when the great chunk of concrete fell. The five held the fire hose. Part of it caught under one corner of the concrete mass. By chopping away some timbers, the firemen were able to extricate the nozzle.

The concrete which fell was estimated to be between 12 and 15 thousand tons. Engineers are puzzled how to dispose of it. All the concrete will have to be repoured when the forms are rebuilt. The upper end of the span section fell about 100 feet and the lower end, which broke away from the supports, dropped about 20 feet. Firemen worked more than three hours before they extinguished the flames.

STABS MAN WHO BETRAYS HIS WIFE

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Jan. 28—Ford Willis was held today on charges of attempting to kill Dr. M. H. Fash after Mrs. Willis had "confessed" she had broke her marriage vows. She claimed she had been "hypnotized" by Fash. The physician was only slightly wounded by the knife stabs inflicted by Willis.

Mrs. Willis, the mother of an eleven months baby, told police that Doctor Fash had attended her for more than a year. Gradually, Mrs Willis declared, she fell under the influence of the physician. After worrying a good deal about it, Mrs. Willis finally confessed to her husband. Willis went to the doctor's office and stabbed him. "I only wanted to disfigure his face so he would always remember" Willis said.

The doctor denied the accusations.

Rome, Jan. 28—A compromise candidate will be elected the next supreme pointiff of the Catholic church, it was believed today.

The two well defined groups—the intransignants who would elect Merry Del Val, opposed to reconcilliation with Italy and the group favoring Gasparri, cardinal camerlingo, which would affect close relations with the government, were apparently evenly paired today with each seeking to gain strength before its test comes at the beginning of the conclave on Thursday.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT ARTIFICIAL GOLD

(By United Press)

Washington, Jan. 26.—It is foolish for the world to worry over artificial gold or its effect upon the economic situation.

This is the balm of the United States Geological Survey to soothe the universal disturbance in the minds of economists aroused by the recent announcement that a new method of alchemy had been discovered.

The feat cannot be termed impossible, but it is too costly, the survey states. The process would be far more expensive than the natural method. The discovery by modern chemistry, the survey says, that many of the supposed elemental substances are in fact compounds, has revived the age-old hope of alchemy, which has drawn men into its luring grasp for centuries.

There is no danger, however, according to the government scientists, that artificial gold, if it can be made, will ever be anything but a curiosity of the chemical laboratory.

JAZZ MUSIC IS OBSCENE DECIDES CHICAGO JUDGE

FINED CABARET DANCER $200 FOR PRESENTING IMPROPER PERFORMANCE TO JAZZ MUSIC

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Jan. 28—Jazz music is barbarism, Judge Harold Heap declared today in handing down a decision in court fining Julia Rector, cabaret dancer, $200 for presenting an improper performance.

The case, which attracted nation-wide attention, involved the notorious entertainers cafe at Chicago, where Miss Rector was employed as a performer.

The decision handed down by Judge Heap was awaited by reformers and social leaders all over the country as an indication of whether music thus can be immoral, and as a precedent for more prosecution of similar cases.

"You could do anything while listening to jazz music," the judge declared.

"The jazz is not dance music. You do not find the activity, the physical and mental exhiliration of the dance as manifested by our fathers and mothers where real music was produced by which they danced.

"This case smacks of the barbarian of the jungle. The jazz music is obscene. The evil genius of this has artfully combined the grossness of primitive sensuality with the gilded refinement of the modern licentiousness. The shimmy and similar dances must go."

Judge Heap pointed out that the testimony showed from 200 to 400 couples danced on a floor four hundred feet square.

WORLD POWERS MAY REWRITE RULES FOR WAR

ANOTHER CONFERENCE TO HANDLE SUBSEA AND GAS PROBLEMS IS AGREED UPON

Washington, Jan. 28—The ground work for another international conference to rewrite the laws of war for submarine and other agencies of attack on land and sea, was completed yesterday by the arms delegates.

Under a resolution adopted by the armament committee, preparations for the new conference will begin immediately upon conclusion of the Washington negotiations. The United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, and Italy will be represented and the American government will select the exact time and place of meeting.

Experts Will Meet.

The first step toward revision of warfare regulations is to be taken by a "commission," presumably composed of international law experts without plenipotentiaries, but the resolution provides that after they have agreed the five governments sall "confer as to the acceptance of the report and the course to be followed to secure consideration of its recommendations by the other civilized powers."

It is taken for granted that questions of national policy as well as legal considerations will enter into the final decisions reached and that the whole problem of the submarine, one of the storm centers of the Washington conference, will be reopened when the powers face each other once more about the council table. It is possible that the tentative agreements reached here both as to submarines and poison gas will be passed along in their present form to provide a basis for the renewed discussions.

The armament committee adopted the resolutions at a short meeting called while most of the other activities of the conference were waiting on a decision of the Shantung controversy. The far eastern committee likewise met and re-adopted its previous declaration on the Chinese radio situation at the same time entering on the record supplemental suggestions of the powers and of China on which no unanimous agreement could be reached.

Root Group Draws Plans

"Resolution for a commission of jurists:

"The United States of America, the British empire, France, Italy and Japan have agreed:

"One—That a committee composed of not more than two members representing each of the above mentioned powers shall be constituted to consider the following questions:

"(a)—Do existing rules of international law adequately cover new methods of attack or defense resulting from the introduction or development, since The Hague conference of 1917, or new agencies of warfare?

"(b)—If not so, what changes in the existing rules ought to be adopted in consequence thereof as a part of the law of nations?

Note Transmitted

"Two—That notices of appointment of the members of the commission shall be transmitted to the government of the United States of America within three months after adjournment of the present conference which after consultation with the powers concerned will fix the day and place for the meeting of the commission.

"Three—That the commission shall be at liberty to request assistance and advice from experts in international law and in land, naval and aerial warfare.

"Four—That the commission shall report its conclusions to each of the powers represented in its membership.

NEW PULP MILL AT CLOQUET DECIDED UPON THIS WEEK

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 28—The building of a sulphate pulp mill here by the Northwestern Paper company was definitely assured this week, when the stockholders of the company at a special meeting held here authorized the construction of the new plant.

The Northwest Paper company, which has for some time been carrying on an extensive investigation of the possibilities of further expansion, has come to the conclusion that the present property can be best balanced by the addition of another chemical pulp plant.

The new plant, which for the present will be about the same capacity as the sulphite pulp mill built in 1915, will be constructed directly south of the present plant of the Northwest Paper company, on a site which the company now owns.

The engineer, George F. Hardy, of New York, has been instructed to proceed with the preparation of plans and specifications for the new mill, and it is expected that this will require some time and it is probable that considerible consultation and alteration will be necessary before the final plans are reached, but as soon as the plans are finally approved construction work will be started at once on the plant.

The construction of this new plant here will be a valuable addition to the industrial life of the city.

I raised my hand and said, "Don't come in here, we have a scarlet fever patient." He quickly scanned my uniform and made a hasty retreat through the rear door. —Chicago Journal.

Waterproof Sieve.

Turn up the edges of a piece of fine wire gauze to form a small sieve. Smoke the gauze on both sides in a candle flame. If water is poured in slowly it will not run through, as its weight is not sufficient to break the film on the lower side. For the same reason the sieve can be floated on water, even if loaded with a considerable weight.—Tit-Bits.

The Girl Proposes.

The inhabitants of Himia, in the Greek archipelago, are engaged almost entirely in sponge fishing. When a girl desires to marry she waits until she has obtained the number of sponges from the sea that corresponds with the number of years she has lived. These she places in a silk net, which she presents to the man of her choice. Should he refuse, his chances of obtaining another bride are remote, as usually the Himian maidens shun him as a punishment.

WELSH TUNES HAVE SURVIVED

Traditional Melodies Still in Use, Though They Have Not Been Committed to Paper.

Traditional Welsh music has found a place in the services of the Roman Catholic cathedral at Westminster. The attention of Dr. R. D. Terry, the organist of the cathedral, was drawn to the tunes some years ago by David Lloyd George. At service of benediction recently the "O Salutaris hostia" and the "Tantum ergo" were both sung to ancient Welsh melodies. The tune used for the latter is one of the prime minister's favorites.
"These old tunes have been wonderfully preserved," Doctor Terry told a London Daily Mail reporter. "Many of them date from the pre-Reformation period. For centuries they were not written down, but they were saved by the Welsh genius for unaccompanied singing. They were handed down from one generation to another.
"Many of them have been recovered and published in Welsh hymnals, but unhappily in too many cases their harmonies and even their melodies were revised in accordance with the musical ideals of the last century.
"It is still possible, however, to hear them sung in all the beauty of their original form in remote Welsh villages, and intelligent Welsh musicians of today are realizing how very much more beautiful these old versions are. Dr. Walford Davies, a Welshman who is now professor of music at the University of Wales, may be trusted to see that good care is taken of them."

It Happens So.

When I was a boy I knew a boy who didn't appear to amount to much; work was a thing that he didn't enjoy, and his books were things he would seldom touch. Every one said, in those bygone days, that fame and riches would never be his, he would sink, they thought, into useless ways, and there is exactly where he is.—Exchange.

High Seas.

The term "high seas" is the open sea or ocean. The claims of various nations to exclusive rights and control over extensive tracts of the ocean highways have been settled after much controversy by a general international law. The principle now accepted is that the jurisdiction of maritime states extends only for three miles off their own coasts; the remainder of the seas being high seas, accessible on equal terms to all nations. Inland seas and estuaries, of course, are excepted.

FOREIGN DEBT COMMISSION

Those who favor the idea of Congressional representation on the war debt commission advance excellent reasons why there should be two members of the majority party, and the House of Representatives should furnish one of them. It is suggested that a member of the Senate Finance committee and one of the House Ways and Means committee would be the proper thing.

The argument is made that the House should be represented, because the refunding of the foreign loans provided for is a matter intimately related to the national revenues, and the Constitution requires that "all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives," and the House Rules, prescribing the powers and duties of committees, reads: "The revenue and the bonded debt of the United States—to the Committee on Ways and Means."

The administrative features of the refunding bill are hardly such as to give rise to effective criticism of the legislative for encroaching on the executive branch of the Government, while legislative participation in the work of the commission insures a liason between the commission and Congress. The President, in a message to Congress, reprobated any idea of the executive branch to adopt any major policy respecting our foreign loans which would conflict with the purposes of Congress in authorizing them, unless Congressional authority were first secured. "There is an insistent call," he declared, "for harmony of purpose and accord of action to speed the solution of the difficult problems confronting both branches of the Government."

SENATORS IN CONFERENCE

The appointment by President Harding of two members of the Senate as delegates from the United States to the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments created a very favorable impression upon the country at the time it was announced, and every one, we think, will concede that this action has been even more than justified. Senator Lodge, Republican, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, and Senator Underwood, Democrat, minority leader, have worked well and in complete harmony, and have fittingly represented the Nation and the Senate in the deliberations of the Conference.

Conditions have been entirely different from the Versailles Conference. Unlike the American delegates to the Versailles Conference, who were delegates in name only and not permitted by President Wilson to act even in an advisory capacity, the two Senators who were appointed to the Washington Conference have had ample opportunity to function and have been charged with large responsibilities with respect to which they have given an excellent accounting. For example, to Senator Lodge was accorded the privilege of presenting to the Conference the proposed Four-Power Treaty, and his presentation was admirable. Senator Underwood was assigned the task as principal to draft the tariff rates accepted by the Chinese delegates. Both gentlemen have been prominent in the work of the Confrence since Nov. 12, and both have done much to insure the success of the gathering.

SOUND ECONOMIC LEGISLATION

The present prices of Liberty Bonds as compared with those prevailing months ago, is a fair index of what has taken place in practically every line of business and credit since the Republican victory at the November elections in 1920. The low point of the Liberty and Victory issues was reached in the summer of that year, when the former were sold on the stock exchanges as low as $81.00 and the latter at $94.00. At the present time all of the Liberty issues are selling close to par, while the Victory Notes are slightly above par.

There was no promise in the Republican national platform that Liberty Bonds would be restored to par, as the leaders of the party did not want to hold out hopes to the people which it might be found impossible to fulfill, but President Harding, in his speech of acceptance, promised to do everything in his power to bring back the price of our war securities to the figure that their owners had been compelled to pay for them. The President adopted the only practical plan for bringing that about, namely, the restoration of business confidence through the passage of sound economic legislation, and the practice of the most rigid economy on the part of the Federal Government. The recuperation of Liberty Bonds came as a natural consequence of those policies. We believe the people are very well satisfied with the progress that has been made in business readjustment through the sound economic policies of the Republican party.

Mike Holm, Secretary of State, announces that fifteen days of grace will be given automobile owners to buy their licenses. This makes the final date for obtaining licenses Feb. 15, after which the penalty of 25 cents a day will go into effect.

It is now thought that a Congressional legislative program will be agreed upon which will force consideration of the treaties coming out of the Armament Conference into a special session of the Senate next summer.

The House Ways and Means committee has decided to begin hearings next Tuesday on soldier bonus legislation, with a view to the enactment of a bonus bill at the present session of Congress.

AMUSEMENTS

Eileen Percy at Lyceum Tonight

In her latest picture, "Little Miss Hawkshaw"—announced for the Lyceum theatre tonight only, Eileen Percy, the sprightly Fox star, plays the part of an heiress who, by chance, does not enjoy the benefits of her good fortune until she has grown to be quite a young woman in the environment of poverty.

In real life the pretty Eileen needs no fortune aside from her face and her ability to act. With the star roles in "Maid of the West," "Hickville to Broadway," "The Tomboy," "Why Trust Your Husband?" and other successes to her credit, the former artist's model and Ziegfeld Follies beauty has become a leading favorite with picture audiences.

"Little Miss Hawkshaw" is said to present her at her best in an excellent comedy drama.

Alice Lake in "Over the Wire" Sunday at the Lyceum

Alice Lake, the little Metro star, whose latest picture, "Over the Wire" is showing at the Lyceum theatre Sunday matinee and night, has for some time been worrying over the oft-discussed question "What's In a Name?"

And all because of a proposal of marriage.

Now there's nothing shocking or ridiculous in a marriage proposal, when you are expecting it, and actually see it coming in the eyes of your sweetheart long before he has even any notions about the matter. But to be proposed by someone an utter stranger—that's a horse of a different color.

But Alice Lake's complaint is worse An utter stranger proposed to her, but he didn't have the decency to show himself as he "did the deed;" no, not satisfied with the proposal, he had to make himself invisible, using the agency of the telephone for his dire work.

Wm. Faversham at Lyceum Monday

Theatregoers may now enjoy once more the brilliant performances of William Faversham, who, after an absence of several years from American dramatic activities, appears in the ranks of the motion picture stars under Selznick management. His first production is "The Man Who Lost Himself," a romantic mystery drama by H. de Vere Stacpoole, which will be shown at the Lyceum theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

"The Man Who Lost Himself" depicts the experiences of a financially embarrassed American in London. He becomes some one else overnight without his consent or knowledge, and has some equally thrilling and laughable times passing from the true self to the false one. The situation is complicated by the existence of a wife, relatives, a fortune, and a title.

The photoplay is declared to be one fully worth of the talents of its leading player. It was directed by Geo. D. Baker. A notable cast supports Mr. Raversham.

"Blue Blazes"

Action and thrills from the jump-off mark. "Blue Blazes," starring Lester Cuneo, which opens at the New Park theatre today. Cuneo is ably supported by Francelia Billington and an excellent cast including Phil Gastrock, Bert Sprotte and Fanny Midgley. The story revolves about a world-famous prize-fighter who becomes weary of public adulation and disappears in search of romance. He finds it in the Great Southwest. A thrilling fistic duel in a blazing oil well is one of the big thrills of the picture. "Blue Blazes" was written by Henry McCarty and Leo Meehan, and directed by Robert Kelly under the supervision of Charles W. Mack.

Ray's Corking Comedy Dominates R. S. V. P."

Corking comedy is the keynote of "R. S. V. P.," the latest First National attraction starring Charles Ray, which comes to the New Park theatre Sunday only.

The star, who was a gridiron warrior, pugilist and bush leaguer, has evidenced a versatility that places him in the front ranks of screen actors, again demonstrates his ready facility to adapt himself to a new role in the ease with which he takes the part of Richard Morgan, struggling artist with rich relatives who forsakes luxuries for the sake of art.

It can readily be believed that out of such a character Ray gets as much humor as any one could. He hits the high spot with his chum, Benny Fielding, played by Harry Myers when they array themselves for a formal function with the various appendages of one dress suit between them. It's inadvisable to give explanations, so while Benny is taking his turn dancing downstairs the star busies himself upstairs washing his hands whenever anyone happens to watch him.

It is the girl, played by Jean Calhoun, making her initial bow as leading woman for Ray, who solves the situation. When an irate father, boiling over at the manner in which his hospitality has been imposed upon, seeks satisfaction from the irresponsible artists, she saves the situation and proves her love for the young star at the same time.

The story was written by Rob Wagner, whose articles on the motion picture industry in the Saturday Evening Post have proven him an expert in realizing the needs of good screen material. As in the case with most of his productions since he became an independent star, Charles Ray Directed "R. S. V. P." himself.

Story of the Old West Coming to the Park Theatre

"A Man From Nowhere," feature attraction at the New Park theatre next Monday and Tuesday, in which Jack Hoxie is starred, is a tale of the old West in the days when might made right and every man was a law unto himself, depending upon his ability to handle a pistol for his very existence.

This marks Jack Hoxie's first appearance as a star in feature pictures, he having previously been starred in serials, notable among his successes being "Lightning Bryce" and "Thunderbolt Jack." "Thunderbolt Jack" proved to be one of the biggest serial successes ever produced and established Jack Hoxie as one of the most fearless and daring of serial stars, besides ability to do "stunt" riding and other deeds of strength that are required of a serial star. He demonstrated remarkable ability as an actor of the first class with the result that the producer, Ben Wilson, secured his name to a contract by which he was to make a series of four pictures which are to be released by the Arrow.

COULD NOT ACCEPT REWARD

But the Druggist Must Have Had His Opinion of Value Woman Put on His Services.

The druggist had stopped in the middle of putting up a difficult prescription and deftly removed from the woman's eye the cinder that had been causing her great pain.

"Ah, thank you so much," she gushed. "How much is it?"

"Nothing at all," he replied courteously.

"O, but you should let me pay you something—you really should? I'm sure it would be only right to pay you for your time. It took all of five minutes—or at least we will call it five minutes, though of course it wasn't really so long—and if your time is worth $8 a day—and really, I think druggists should make that much, though of course they do not work so hard as carpenters or painters—why that would come to—let me see, why nearly 10 cents—or at least we will call it 10 cents, though it would really be only about 8 cents, wouldn't it?"

"No, madam," the druggist replied firmly. "We are glad to do these little services for our customers, and I recall distinctly that you have bought most of your postage stamps here for a long while."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Seek Fossil Treasures.

Graves unmolested for hundreds of thousands of years, according to scientists, were jarred to daylight at Torrance, near Los Angeles, when a blast of 100 pounds of dynamite pushed into the air fossils of antediluvian beasts. It was a treasure blast, especially set for a group of California scientists who visited the lime pits which have given forth molars of the two-toed horse, the saber-toothed tiger, the giant sloth and other peculiar inhabitants of the jungles which existed hereabouts a half a million years or more before Los Angeles was thought of.

A whole mass of interesting discoveries was made in the debris of the explosion. Something of the size of these prehistoric monsters may be gleaned from the fact that one tooth measures about 15 inches across the top and is from 18 to 24 inches long.

An Egg Mystery.

If you want to mystify your friends, show them how you can get an egg into a bottle the mouth of which appears to be far too narrow for the purpose. It can be done by soaking the egg in a strong solution of acetic acid and water. The egg becomes soft and can be pressed into any shape. When it falls into the water in the bottle it will harden again.—Tit-Bits.

"WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE WORLD"

Peter W. Collins to Lecture at Gardner Auditorium on Sunday Afternoon, January 29

UNDER K. OF C. AUSPICES

Mr Collins is a Noted Industrial Expert and Lecturer on Sociological Topics

The 1921-22 Knights of Columbus ampaign against extereme radicalism will be brought home to the citizens of Brainerd when Peter W. Collins, well-known industrial expert and lecturer on sociological and economic subjects will appear at Gardner auditorium on Sunday afternoon, January 29 under the auspices of Brainerd Council, K. of C. Mr. Collin's subject will be "What's Wrong With the World?"

Mr. Collins is a leader in the corps of K. of C. lecturers engaging in the nation-wide offensive the K. of C. are conducting against organized radicalism. He is acknowledged to be one of the best equipped authorities on Socialism, discussing all industrial problems from the viewpoint of a labor unionist in good standing and at the same time insisting on the rights of capital as well as the rights of labor.

Serving as an industrial expert with the Federal Government during the war and as an active labor executive for many years before the war, he has come into contact with every phase of the sociological-economic problems that confront the United States. His evidence before the New York State Assembly during the investigation into the activities of Socialist members of that assembly was one of the features of the most sensational legislative inquiry ever conducted in the United States.

As Director General of K. of C. reconstrcction and employment work after the war, Mr. Collins had charge of the functioning of the K. of C. system that placed 300,000 former service men back in civilian employment without a cent of cost to either employed or employers—constituting what Secretary of Labor James J. Davis characterizes as the most amazing feat in the history of modern employment management.

Mr. Collins lecture will be under the auspices of Brainerd Council, which has issued a general invitation to the public to hear him. It is entirely free, and no collection will be taken.

AMAZING CAREER OF MATA HARI CARRIED DANCER BEFORE FRENCH FIRING SQUAD

By JOHN O'BRIEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Chapter II

Paris, Jan. 27.—Mata Hari gloried in declaring herself a modern Messalina. She told the courtmartial, which was to send her to an inglorious death of her countless love affairs, that she was a courtesan but not a spy. Tall, well formed, with fine dark eyes and regular features, this strange woman boasted that every officer she encountered during the war loved her.

"For me," she said, "nothing interested me but officers. They are a race apart. I have had many, many lovers, but they were all brave soldiers, always ready to fight, but while waiting for the battle, always gallant and amiable. I didn't care whether they were French, Russian, German or Austrian."

The President of the courtmartial recalled to Mata Hari that once in Paris when she thought herself suspected by the French she offered her services to the French counter-espionage.

"I had good sources of information," the dancer replied, "and I wanted to be useful to France."

"Because the Germans were not able to send you any more money, we having discovered their method," retorted the President dryly.

Mata Hari said she offered to give the French information about the German submarine bases on the north African coast.

"Where did you get the information?" asked the court. "If it were true it showed you were in the pay of the Germans and if it were false, it showed you were trying to trick us."

The dancer's face showed that the blow had gone home. The president of the court then brought out that she had offered to proceed to Belgium and work against the Germans. The head of the French counter-espionage, who was well aware of her history, acquiesced. She asked him for the names and address of the leading French agents in Belgium. She was supplied with a list. All the names were false—except one, that of a notorious double spy who was betraying both sides. Mata Hari went to Brussels. Four days later the double spy was executed by the Germans.

For some unexplained reason, possibly because of her powerful friends, the French authorities did not even then take action against the woman. She asked to be sent to England, and her request was acceded to. There she tried to take a boat for Holland, but the British secret service arranged things so that when Mata Hari landed from that boat it was at Bilbao, Spain. Tha trip was her undoing. She was practically penniless, but managed to get to Madrid and put up at the Grand Hotel. There she met the German military attache and tried to make the acquaintance of the French attache. The latter, warned from Paris, was on his guard. As nothing could be gotten out of the Frenchman, the dancer turned to the German. Von Kroon, the German attache, was smitten by her charms and made her presents of valuable gems. But Mata Hari didn't want jewelry. She wanted cash. Von Kroon didn't see why he should pay the woman out of his own funds, but he got in touch with the spy service in Amsterdam and it was arranged that the dancer-spy should go back to Paris where she would receive thirty thousand francs through a neutral legation.

The French secret service learned that an order for the payment of such an amount to C. A. 24 had been transmitted from Amstredam. They were on the watch for Mata Hari. She was trailed from the moment she crossed the Spanish frontier. She went to the neutral legation, received the money and as she stepped into the street, was arrested. Her career was ended.

When the fact of that fatal telegram was flung at Mata Hari at her trial she collapsed. She felt herself doomed. Still she tried to deny, to explain.

"I—I—tell you—I tell—you—it was not for spying. Von Kroon couldn't pay me—himself—so he thought best to have his government pay for his pleasures."

"As we listened to that last despairing cry," said Major Massard, in telling the story of the court martial, "we thought of the poor devils of poilus out in the mud of the trenches battling against the invader, while that miserable, powdered, painted, beflowered and gaily bedecked courtesan was stabbing them in the back."

(To be concluded.)

Why Are We White?

The reason why Caucasians are white is very simple as explained by one of the gravest German savants.

Originally all men were black, because they lived on roots and fruits. When they got dispersed more widely, altered conditions very soon modified the color of their skins.

In this way the negroes in America turned into red Indians, because they used bloody meat, which supplied them with a superabundance of hemogoblin, the coloring matter of the blood.

The Chinese, the Japanese and the Mongolians are yellow because their ancestors made a misuse of milk, which contains chlor, whose dissolving force is well known.

Now, why are we white? asks Le Petit Journal of Paris. Solely because we eat too much salt, which, as a dissolvant even surpasses chlor, that turns Asiatics yellow. The day we shall cease to salt our food we shall become black again and have flat noses.

Distilling Rare Metals.

Among the most interesting experiments made with the electric furnace are those reported by M. Moissan, the French chemist. It appears that, with a current of 500 amperes at 110 volts' pressure, he in a few minutes distilled from 20 to 50 grams of platinum. The ebullition of the metal took place as quietly as that of water at its boiling point. The metallic drops were collected on a copper tube traversed by a current of cold water. They deposited themselves in the form of cubic crystals and brilliant crystalline sheets. Moissan has, it seems, also distilled the rare metals osmium, ruthenium, palladium, iridium and rhodium.

Rub Backache Away

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Limber up? Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 days.

Refinishing Floors.

To restore oak floors the old varnish must be first removed. Get at any paint shop paint remover, which will soften the varnish so it can be easily scraped off, after which clean the floor with rags and benzine. Next bleach, using oxalic acid dissolved in hot water. When dry the floor will be white. Wash with clear water and vinegar and it is ready to be filled. Use a paste filler, which must be wiped off. As soon as it begins to show white the floor is ready to be finished in varnish or wax.
